MARINE BULK OIL SHIPMENTS – SHORTAGE RISKS & QUALITY DISPUTES COURSE

CARDIFF - APRIL 2019

Minton, Treharne & Davies (MTD) are pleased to announce that we will be running our three day training course dealing with MARINE BULK OIL SHIPMENTS – SHORTAGE RISKS & QUALITY DISPUTES in Cardiff in April 2019.

For those of you who have not heard of MTD, we are a firm of consulting scientists, mariners and engineers with offices and laboratories in Europe, Asia, Australia and the USA. Whilst the technical services we offer to industry are wide ranging, covering multiple disciplines, we are probably best known as investigators of incidents for the marine and energy markets. We have an international reputation for expertise in the investigation of quantity and quality claims concerning marine bulk oil shipments, bunker disputes and general best practice in mitigation strategies, claims management and loss control.

The Course has been running continuously in the UK for the last 25 years. More recently we also ran two identical oil courses in Singapore in 2017.

We believe this Course is unique in that it focuses on all aspects of oil production, storage and shipment. This encompasses an introduction to oil chemistry and the refining processes, measurement techniques, common problems and methods of investigating and mitigating quantity and quality claims. At all times, this is combined with practical “hands on” demonstrations.

A key aspect of oil movements is the role of the inspectors and surveyors whose job it is record cargo details and investigate losses. The Course programme includes a visit to a petrochemical storage facility to see first-hand how oil is stored, measured, sampled and tested.

The Course is limited in the number of delegates that we can accommodate. This is to ensure that all attendees get the opportunity to take a full and interactive part in the event. For this reason, early application is recommended to secure a place.

The course will take place on 2nd-4th April 2019.

The fee for attendance is £ 3,250.00+VAT per person, which includes the provision of 4 Star accommodation in the renowned New Country House Hotel, all meals and refreshments during the day. Transportation to and from the terminal on Day 2 is included and extensive notes for subsequent reference are also provided.

The Course attracts CPD points from both the CII and the Law Society.

We trust these details will be of interest to you but should you require further information please contact Joe White on +44 207 626 8626 or through our Singapore Office on +65 6341 5060. Please send any email queries to oilcourse@minton.co.uk.

A booking form is enclosed to reserve a place on either course.

Yours faithfully,

ABOUT THE COURSE

The course has been compiled in response to a demand from the marine insurance, legal and oil trading community for a basic introduction to the issues surrounding bulk oil cargo quantity and quality disputes. Although the course is not intended to provide an in-depth study of scientific detail concerning oil chemistry, it does provide a varied programme of technical subjects structured for delegates who are not of a scientific discipline. Key general topics include the role of the cargo inspectors, methods of storage and carriage and examples/case studies of actual quantity and quality claims that MTD have investigated.

During the sessions delegates are invited to raise questions relevant to their sphere of business and have the opportunity to discuss technical issues with the scientists and mariners who are routinely engaged in dealing with such problems throughout the world.

The principal objectives of the programme is to provide an appreciation of:

01 GENERAL

- The oil market and types of product shipped
- Crude oil – chemistry and refining
- The role of the independent inspector
- Visit to storage terminal and inspection laboratory

02 SHORTAGE RISKS

- How oil cargo quality is measured – sampling and analysis
- Key quality parameters
- The importance of samples and joint analysis procedures
- The distinction between contamination and an apparent change in quality
- How contamination may be caused and methods of investigation
- Bunker disputes
- Loss mitigation
